Hi Jarn,

Apologies for not getting back to you earlier regarding the appointment. Ben, our installations manager, has been unwell so we needed to wait to see if he was in today or not. As he hasn't, I will have to wait to see if he is back tomorrow. I will let you know first thing in the morning tomorrow, and if he isn't, I will try to move some things around to send Adrian and discuss any questions the owner may have.

In the meantime, please see attached the revised quote with the extra wide side channels (as per my last email). I have attached the photos again (also the hem bar) just for reference.

If you have any further questions, please do let us know.

Kind Regards

Hi Tamara, is there any chance we could get something scheduled in either tomorrow or Wednesday because he is away again on Thursday?
Many thanks

Dear Jarn,

Thank you for your email.

I hope the information I sent in the last email helped.

As per my last email, I am just waiting on a couple of details to send you the final quote with the largest side profiles, but I should have it by Monday morning.

Regarding the site visit, Ben is not available at all but let me speak with Adrian on Monday as he might be able to help and explain any doubts, so I need to check with him regarding his diary. He is fully booked but I might be able to move some things around.

Have a lovely weekend.

Kind Regards

Dear Tamara

Thank you for your comprehensive replies.

The owner is now back and wants to finalise the order. Is anyone able to pop by between Monday - Wednesday next week?

If not maybe we could arrange a call but it may that he wants to understand in a physical way!

Hope that makes sense and i look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards

Jarn

Dear Jarn,

Leeana has forwarded me your email.

Regarding the other quote, I have checked with the supplier and the cost would be higher. They do provide zips and the brush on the bottom hem bar on white and grey in addition to the black ones (still not 100% blackout), but they don't recommend them as they can let more light in.

The current quote, emailed to you back in March, would include black zips and bottom brush. These are not blackout but, please note that the zips are inside the side channels.

In regards to the other queries, I will speak with the supplier and our installations manager and will get back to you as soon as possible.

Kind Regards

Dear Leeana
I know you're away at the moment.
Can anyone answer the below questions from abhishek ?
Also regarding the zip and colour, you were going to email me.
Many thanks

can you ask:

1. can we do the 24mm side channel (looks like that is the smallest):
<image003.png>
2. Can the side channel be painted to be the exact same color as the paint on the door/door frame? or would the white they provide be almost the same? might be better to paint first in the same paint and then put on the wall? ask them?
3. at the bottom edge, we dont want a channel - so it should be blackout simply by virtue of sitting on the flat window sill
4. at the sides of the central blind with the door, when you get down to the skirting, how do they propose taking care of this? We dont want to damage the skirting really, so was wondering if someone could take a template of the skirting shape very very precisely, and then cut the blind perfectly to fit, maybe with a few brushes on the blind so you get a tight seal around the skirting without needing to damage the skirting.
5. we would mount this behind the roman blind, and do it so that as you lower the roman blind, that lowers slightly ahead of time, and then the blackout blind behind starts coming down - so you dont really even know it exists.

thank you!

Can you also ask them to confirm that everything will be white, including the brushes in the track? Don't want any black pieces to be visible.

In addition, will they be able to cut the fabric to the shape of the bottom so that we don't need to cut into the skirting board, as discussed?

Thanks
